Krause and Jones explained that under their current ISFSI permit, the company can store the spent fuel in perpetuity. Under this amendment to their current ISFSI permit they would be limited to a very short period of time before they would need to return to the Commission. Given the actual, fairly minimal modifications to the concrete pad to accommodate the new storage containers ie the horizontal or Orano system, it is their request that the term of the ISFSI permit be significantly lengthened. They indicated that they would be meeting with Tom Luster tomorrow to discuss this issue. I asked about the other conditions recommended by staff in the amended permit and they indicated that they didn't have a problem with those conditions. They showed me a 48 second Youtube video of the construction elements of the modified concrete pad for the new system which they indicated they would be showing at the hearing.
