South Casa Staircase Repair Executive Summary

The City of San Diego, in collaboration with the La Jolla Coastal Conservancy (LJCC), proposes to repair the existing South Casa Beach stairway to restore safe public access to the shoreline. The project is located at South Casa Beach in La Jolla (32.847004° N, 117.278754° W), south of Children's Pool and west of Coast Blvd., where a long-standing public accessway has been closed for over two years due to structural failure.

The staircase leading to South Casa Beach in La Jolla was broken due to severe winter storms and large surf events in December 2023 and January 2024. The project restores public access consistent with the California Coastal Act. Reestablishing the staircase will restore access, improve public safety, and reduce informal and potentially hazardous bluff routes.

The proposed scope of work consists of repairing and stabilizing the existing stair system to safely reopen beach access within the existing footprint. The cantilevered portion of the original staircase system suffered a shear failure, driven by unsupported loads and corrosion from coastal exposure. The repair will be on the bottom staircase. A new set of staircase concrete treads will be replaced below the first landing. After replacing the flight of stairs, a caisson-support landing is designed to provide load handling, which resolves both gravity and lateral loads (including wave and erosion forces) and minimizes bluff intrusion, and avoids reliance on soil nails or helical systems in a dynamic coastal interface. After the landing, the lower run is turned parallel to the shoreline to avoid direct wave impact. This project responsibly restores historic shoreline access and improves public safety.

Throughout this project, the City will collaborate, oversee, and provide expertise for the project from design, permitting, and construction to project closeout. The City will provide input on the design and engineering to ensure it meets regulations and construction standards. The City will also lead the applicant through any regulatory requirements and assist in processing the required permits (discretionary and building permits), and oversee the construction, inspection, and acceptance of the work during project closeout.

The La Jolla Coastal Conservancy will be the lead applicant for the project and will produce the engineered design as well as submit for the required permits. LJCC and their consultants will produce drawings and reports. They will obtain the contractor to construct the project. LJCC and their contractor will lead the project construction through project closeout.
